Read the following passage and answer the questions below:

The Asir region of Saudi Arabia is situated on high land that receives more rain than the rest of the country. It also has the country's highest mountains, which are almost 3,000 metres high at Jebel Sawdah near Abha. There is very little information about this area but we do know that the rainfall in the highlands probably ranges from 300 to 500 millimetres (12 to 20 inches) in a year with the rain falling in two rainy seasons. The main rainy season is in March and April but some rain falls in the summer, too. Temperatures are very extreme, with daily temperature ranges in the highlands the greatest in the world. It is common for afternoon temperatures to be over 30°C (85°F) but at the same time mornings can be extremely cold and fog can make it impossible to see your own hand if you stretch it out in front of you. Because of the rain, there are many more trees and plants in Asir than in any other part of Saudi Arabia, with some areas even containing areas of thick forests. However, many parts of Asir are very dry. Asir is home to many farmers who mainly grow wheat and fruit.
